

Storm Delays Project

Polk reported that a paving project near the parking lot behind a section of the Park avenue business area had been prepared for actual work on the day that the winter's worst storm hit the borough.

He also reported that S. Herbert Taylor, borough engineer, had said the Glenwood avenue drainage project was making normal progress considering the weather difficulties encountered.

Harry Babcock, superintendent of the Atlantic division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, notified council a complaint of Harry Schott, of 86 West Chestnut avenue regarding freight train smoke had been investigated and action taken.
